NGO IN THE SPOTLIGHT

Patrimonio Natural de Castilla y León's (Natural heritage of Castilla y León, ndr) mission is to promote sustainable development and circular economy in the region of Castilla y León. The entity is also promoting GPP and Circular Procurement between the regional government and local authorities (training, best practices, tender templates). The entity is also integrating GPP in his own EU funded projects. planet.

What have we been up to lately?

Among our last GPP activities we provided GPP support to some departments of our regional government as well as some local entities in specific tenders and we organized a training course addressed to public employees of the regional government and local authorities of Castilla y León. Overall we work to highlight the role of GPP in the Circular Economy Strategy of Castilla y León.

What has our NGO planned for the future?

Our efforts will be in mainstreaming the GPP opportunities by consolidating the region public officials GPP informal network; providing them regular information and identifying and disseminate local GPP Best Practices from both local authorities and private sector. Moreover, we will keep promoting circular economy training for the Spanish beneficiaries of the EU LIFE projects and finally, we will negotiate with the regional government to create a section for GPP at their environment website.

The OEW is a non-profit organisation based in Brixen. For almost 30 years it has been pleading for an open society, conscious consumption and international cooperation in South Tyrol. By means of workshops, exhibitions and campaigns the oew tries to create awareness for global correlations in schools and in the public and to show local possibilities for action. For almost five years now the oew has also been publishing the monthly street newspaper zebra. which currently allows 60 salespeople a dignified occupation and small income. In the oew's in-house specialist library, around 12,000 media on the core topics of integration, fair trade and development cooperation - with a focus on children's and youth literature - are available for loan. Ten full-time employees and numerous volunteers are currently working at the oew. They are convinced of being able to make a difference locally and globally, aiming for a world in which ecological and social sustainability is paramount. planet.

What have we been up to lately?

In 2015 the oew was co-founder of the South Tyrolean citizens' movement "MahlZeit", which was founded on the occasion of the Expo the same year in Milan with a local food security programme. This initiative takes up 10 different areas, including community catering, agriculture, urban gardening and biodiversity, and presents local options for action. In this way, we want to find ways to achieve local and global food sovereignty. In 2017 the first South Tyrolen Nutrition Council was founded. It currently has 16 active members from the fields of education, research, gastronomy, agriculture, marketing, cooperatives, nutrition consultancy, communication and NGOs. Together with many local actors and ICLEI Brussels, a public conference on GPP was successfully held on 1st March 2019.

What has our NGO planned for the future?

On the agenda of the South Tyrolean Nutrition Council for the year 2019 are the two topics of "communal catering" and "health, enjoyment and food culture". At the end of 2018, working groups had already been formed on both topics, which are planning activities for this year. Further future topics of the Nutrition Council are Regional Cycles, Global Market and Biodiversity, as well as the focus on the connection between production and consumption and the promotion of commercial and community gardens (school gardens) and urban gardening, as well as the concept of the "Edible City". The next goal is to bring local politics to take responsibility and to bring producers and buyers to the same table.

GPP Advisory Group - Update on Member State Activities

NGOs can contribute to the development of GPP criteria for some product groups selected by the European Commissions services (lead by DG ENV and the Joint Research Center). The European Environmental Bureau (EEB) follows the development of the EU GPP criteria. Although a voluntary measure, these criteria covering more than 20 product groups provide a useful tool to support public authorities to develop selection criteria for green procurement.
